Ethnoarchaeology is a research technique in archaeology that uses present-day ethnographic information to inform remains of sites. Applied first in the late 19th century and at its height in the 1980s and 1990s, the practice has decreased in the 21st century. The problem is what it's always been: the application of oranges (living cultures) to apples (ancient past).

Ethnoarchaeology is the ethnographic study of peoples for archaeological reasons, usually through the study of the material remains of a society. Ethnoarchaeology aids archaeologists in reconstructing ancient lifeways by studying the material and non-material traditions of modern societies. Ethnoarchaeology also aids in the understanding of the way an object was made and the purpose of what it is being used for. Archaeologists can then infer that ancient societies used the same techniques as the
