As core markets become saturated and new competitors emerge, traditional approaches that have successfully driven growth for years—product innovation and pricing strategy, for example—are reaching the point of diminishing returns.

Using Business Model Innovation to Reinvent the Core

Innovation (not) at the core. July 23, 2019. By Claudio Cisullo. A common mistake in industries faced by severe performance pressure is to turn to well-known innovation tools and strategies. Especially in sectors where innovation is not at the core of the business, a new approach is required. A proven method has

To answer these questions, the Global Innovation Council (GIC) supported by the Mohammed Bin Rashid Centre for Government Innovation (MBRCGI), has been developing a “ Core of government taxonomy ” . Taxonomy aims at helping governments to identify where they can and have to improve, be it their principles, capabilities, processes or functions.
