Early punk artists like Patti Smith, Richard Hell, and Jim Carroll are all deeply connected to the New YorkY school of poetry, and it's this tradition that I've engaged with in my first collection of poems, Count Four. It's a highly personal book, and I explore not only my time playing punk music but also the liminal spaces on society's fringe, the people who exist in these spaces, and the ways in which identity is constructed through social experience.
