When Someone You Love Needs

You don ' t need them to be, you just want them to be. When you want someone in your life, you want them there because life is more fun with them by your side. You want them because you are a complete person without them, but you know that they make you happy. You don ' t need to use them as a crutch — you can stand alone.

The Difference Between Wanting Someone And Needing Them ...

When someone you love needs more care than you can provide, you will be faced with big decisions and you will have a number of complex emotions. Recognizing these decisions and emotions certainly doesn ' t make them go away, but it helps to be prepared. I share with you as someone speaking from experience.

When Someone You Love Needs More Care Than You Can Provide

When someone says that they need some space, the last thing you want to do is overwhelm them with questions or press them for information. The best response is a positive one. Even if things ultimately fizzle out, your partner will be grateful that things ended on good, respectful terms.

What to Do When Someone Says I Need Space

There ' s a difference between being ' in love ' and being ' in need. ' We verbally claim our love for our partner and believe to feel this emotion deeply. However, when it comes down to discerning actions, we might be shocked to realize that we only need them. I needed someone in the past, and truth be told, there was something missing in both me and in my life.

Are You in Love Or in Need? - UPLIFT - We Are One

If your partner leaves you while you have some time to yourself, including not bombarding you with messages or just showing up uninvited, then this can really mean that they love you. When someone knows that you need some time apart, even if it ' s a couple of hours or a couple of days, they will understand and respect your decision, which can be a sign that someone is in love with you.
